WW Introduces Kate Hudson and Robbie Williams as Newest Global Ambassadors

“For Every Body” Campaign Launches on Dec. 26 and Celebrates All You Gain When You Live Healthier

NEW YORK, Dec. 16, 2018 – Today, WW (NASDAQ: WTW) announced that actress, entrepreneur and co-founder of Fabletics, Kate Hudson, and international pop icon Robbie Williams are the company’s newest global ambassadors. They will appear alongside Oprah Winfrey and an international community of WW members in the company’s global integrated campaign - “For Every Body.” Hudson and Williams will share their wellness journeys, encouraging people to share their own reasons for getting healthy in 2019.

“For Every Body” is based on the insight that everyone has their own reason to get healthy and what makes the most meaningful impact along the journey is everything you gain. The campaign reflects WW’s strategic evolution to build on its leading position in weight management and deliver a more holistic platform for health and wellness.

“Our members are the heart of our brand. It’s inspiring to hear their stories and the reasons they want to get healthy – what they call #MyWhy,” said Gail Tifford, Chief Brand Officer, WW. “What’s interesting is that we’ve found many of these ‘whys’ are universal. Whether you want to get healthy for your children or for yourself, whether you want to feel confident in a wedding dress or feel empowered on the first day of a new job, WW is Wellness that Works. For Every Body. And that’s the premise of our campaign.”

The campaign launches at a time when 90% of adults globally say that improving their physical, mental, and emotional health is one of their goals for 2019, according to a new WW Global Wellness Survey*.

“I’m incredibly excited to be a new ambassador for WW and I really believe in the company’s mission to make health and wellness accessible for all,” said Hudson. “The aspect I love most about WW is the community because I know that community is so essential to wellness. To have people you can connect and relate to, as well as people who inspire you, is so important when you’re focused on living your best life.”

“WW is the first program that truly feels like it fits with my life,” added Williams. “After my back injury last year, I have definitely let my healthy habits slip and I feel as though I have let myself and my family down. I can’t keep trying the same things and hoping for a different outcome. I trust the history of behavior science that WW has, and I’m proud to be a new ambassador. Hopefully, others will benefit from my experience.”

“I’ve had a better life since being a part of the WW family,” said Winfrey. “It’s a constant decision to remain healthy and strong and vibrant. I have a real appreciation for every day when I wake up with a healthy mind and a healthy body.”

“WW aims to be the world’s partner in wellness: a program designed for everybody and committed to helping millions adopt healthy habits,” said Mindy Grossman, President and CEO, WW. “We’re so thrilled to have Kate and Robbie join us. They carry a powerful influence that will help us bring our mission to life across the globe, inspiring others to join our community and be their best selves.”

WW continues to enhance the member experience with a vision to create a wellness ecosystem. The company recently launched a new partnership with Aaptiv, a leading provider of premium digital fitness content with the number one audio fitness app. That’s in addition to a partnership with Headspace, a global leader in meditation and mindfulness, to deliver curated content within the WW app. WW also strengthened its community-building features within the app through the launch of Connect Groups, which helps people find other members like them. Groups are based on Food, Life Stage, Wellness Journey, Activity, Mindset and Hobbies.

When people sign up for WW Freestyle™, the most effective and livable program in the company's history, they will have access to these new digital enhancements as well as behavior change expertise that spans across food, activity, and mindset.

The “For Every Body” campaign will launch globally on Dec. 26. Hudson will be featured prominently in marketing materials across all WW global markets, while Williams will be featured in Europe, Australia, New Zealand and Canada. Both ambassadors have entered multi-year agreements with WW.
